Commission Wartburg begins planning process

I always feel better after a visit to Wartburg College.

I love the academic atmosphere filled with lively discussions typical of a thriving liberal arts institution. I am energized by the beautiful campus bustling with activity, the friendly staff and students, and the sense of community I encounter every time I'm here.

This was particularly true on April 9, when the college held the kickoff for Commission Wartburg as part of Inaugural Weekend activities. On this occasion, a special kind of energy filled the air as Wartburg launched a year-long initiative to engage alumni, friends, faculty, staff, and students in examining the college's strengths, needs, and aspirations.

Commission Wartburg: Identifying strategies for the future, enlightened by a rich heritage, is a long-range planning effort that will chart a course for the future advancement of the college.

Commission Wartburg represents the most comprehensive planning effort in Wartburg's history. Most colleges would simply develop a long-range plan internally, but Wartburg is asking for our input about the future of an institution that is important to all of us. The work of the Commission will also help us build on the college's rich heritage as we prepare to celebrate our sesquicentennial—the 150th anniversary of Wartburg's founding—in 2002.

Commission members have the opportunity to serve on one of eight task forces and work in partnership with faculty, staff, and students to look at the college from every aspect and make recommendations to the Board of Regents. A total of 236 alumni and friends from 24 states are involved in this exciting effort.

The beauty of this process is the collaboration between Wartburg and its many constituencies. Together we are creating a blueprint for the Wartburg of the future. I applaud the Board of Regents and President Ohle for their visionary thinking and willingness to expose the college to critical analysis and ideas that will benefit our students for years to come.

As we look to the end of this century and the beginning of a new millennium, it is exciting for me, as a former chair of the Board of Regents, to be a part of this process. The coming decade will present private colleges and universities with a wide variety of challenges and exciting opportunities. The recommendations from Commission Wartburg will ensure that our sights and aspirations remain high and are on target.

Thanks to the hard work and dedication of Commission Wartburg members, Wartburg will have a bold plan of action to move it forward with purpose and confidence.

Presidential 'domino effect' benefits ELCA colleges

Three former Wartburg administrators now head colleges of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America.

In what became a presidential domino effect, Dr. Robert Vogel '56 announced in late 1997 that he would retire after 18 years as Wartburg's president. Following Vogel's announcement, Dr. Richard Torgerson, vice president for development, left Wartburg in early 1998 to accept a similar position at Gustavus Adolphus College in St. Peter, Minn. In May 1999, Torgerson was named president of Luther College in Decorah.

That same month, the Rev. Thomas W. Thomsen, president of Grand View College in Des Moines since 1996, accepted the presidency of Concordia College in Moorhead, Minn. Thomsen had worked at Wartburg for several years during the Vogel administration, first as a development officer and later as director of financial aid.

Ironically, the domino effect came full circle with Vogel. After less than a year in retirement, he began work May 17 as acting president of Grand View College. He will remain in office until the college names a permanent successor for Thomsen.

Wartburg profiled as "Barron's best buy"

Wartburg is one of nearly 300 colleges included in the updated fifth edition of Barron's Best Buys in College Education.

"This is wonderful news," said Patricia Doyle, subsidiary rights manager of Barron's Educational Series, Inc., of Hauppauge, N.Y. "It means you give parents and students the most for every dollar they spend at your college."

Nearing completion

The Vogel Library will be up and running by the time students arrive on campus for Fall Term. Anticipated completion date for the facility is Sept. 1, according to Dr. Mike Book, vice president for administration and finance. In the photo above, the spire is placed on the library roof. At right, a worker puts finishing touches on an upper-floor window. The library collection, which was moved to the Fine Arts Center basement a year ago, will be moved into the library beginning Aug. 15. Final projects will be completion of the Konditorei, a coffee shop in the circular structure at the ground level, and the skywalk between the Fine Arts Center and the Vogel Library. Dedication of the new facility is scheduled for Homecoming weekend, Oct. 15-17.

Cost increase includes Internet, cable access

The cost of attending Wartburg will increase 4.49 percent for the 1999-00 academic year. According to President Jack R. Ohle, part of the increase reflects the college's decision to extend Internet and cable television access to all residence hall rooms.

The $825 increase includes $600 in tuition, $100 in room, and $50 in board, plus a new $75 technology fee. Total cost for the 1999-00 year will be $19,205: $14,955 for tuition and fees, $2,000 for room, and $2,250 for board.

Ohle said the technology fee will be used to extend fiber optic cable to all campus residence halls, computer laboratories, and the new library, providing an Internet connection to every student in the residence halls and access to the network in all campus buildings.

The increase in room charges will provide residence hall improvements and cable television service to all rooms. Ohle said students will no longer pay a separate cable service fee. Next year's budget, approved by the Board of Regents in February, will also include three new faculty positions in theatre arts, mathematics/physics, and music.

College purchases Denver apartments for Wartburg West

Wartburg has purchased an apartment building in Denver, Colo., for use by students enrolled in the Wartburg West program. It will be ready for occupancy this fall, according to Dr. Mike Bock, vice president for administration and finance.

The two-story brick structure, located at 285 S. Lincoln, is five minutes from downtown Denver, across the street from a bus stop, and near the city's mass transit system.

"You couldn't pick a more convenient spot," said the Rev. Nelson Bock, who co-directs Wartburg West with his wife, the Rev. Bonita Bock. "Everything the students need, including transportation and shopping outlets, is right there."

The building contains 6,702 square feet with a finished ground level. It will provide housing for 20 students in eight two-person apartments and one four-person unit. It includes a guest room for visiting parents or faculty and a conference room/computer laboratory for students.

Wartburg West now offers programs during Fall, Winter, and May Terms, and Bock said the new facility will enhance the experience.

"During this past Winter Term, we had students scattered in four different buildings," he noted, "plus we had to rent furniture for each apartment."

Wartburg West just completed its 14th year of operation. It provides students with an opportunity to live, work, and study for a term in a pluralistic urban setting. Students are involved in an internship or student teaching as well as academic courses. Last year, 50 students applied for the 40 Fall and Winter Term openings.

Choir concert at Wartburg Castle will be televised on Iowa Public Television

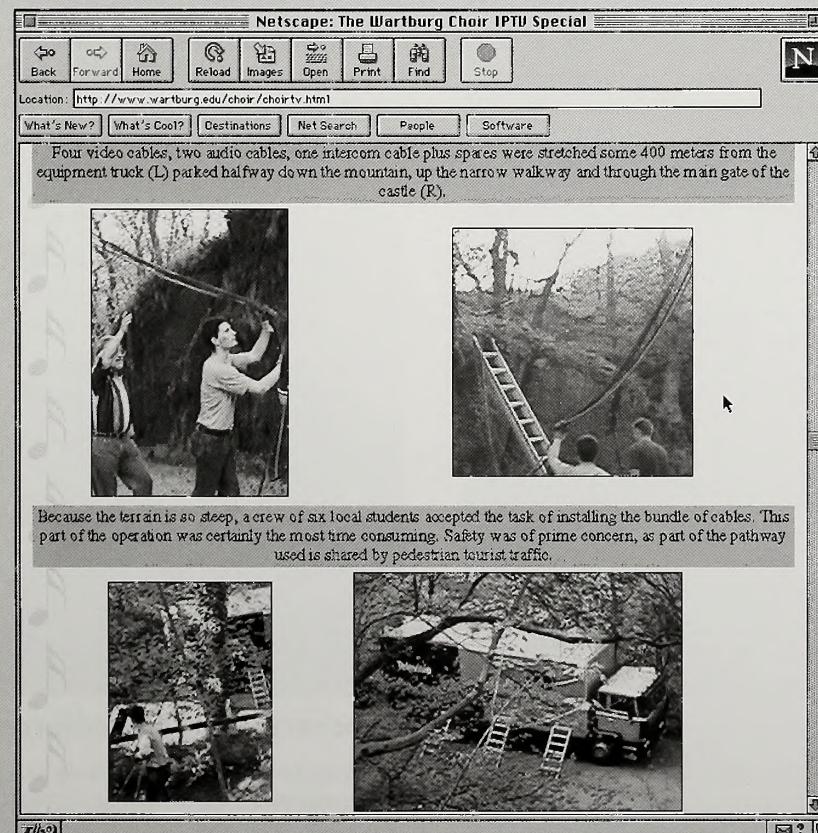

The Wartburg Choir's spring concert at the Wartburg Castle in Eisenach, Germany, was taped for a special broadcast this fall by Iowa Public Television. According to IPTV producer Jerry Grady, this first-ever television production from the castle will air in late September or early October. The specific date has not been announced.

The choir performed in the Great Hall of the castle on April 30 as part of a May Term tour of Europe. Grady and David Harrenstein '70 of the Wartburg communication arts faculty were in Eisenach to direct the filming, which was done by a crew from Amsterdam.

The crew's three trucks could not negotiate the steep and narrow cobblestone road that leads to the castle. As a result, all video and audio cables for the production had to be pulled 400 meters from the trucks, located halfway down the mountain, up the narrow walkway, and through the main gate to the Great Hall.

Harrenstein and Grady reviewed the entire concert in advance, note by note, to plan the 300 camera shots involved in the production. The broadcast will include exterior shots of the castle surroundings and interviews with students.

Ohle names vice presidents

Two vice presidents have joined the Wartburg senior administrative staff.

David Ostrander

David Ostrander, formerly at Coe College in Cedar Rapids, began work June 1 as vice president for institutional advancement.

Dr. Ferol Schricker

Menzel, formerly at Grand View College in Des Moines, joined the staff July 1 as vice president for academic affairs and dean of the faculty.

"We are fortunate to find two such well-qualified people as Wartburg College moves into the 21st century," said President Jack R. Ohle.

"Both are committed to and familiar with the private sector of higher education in Iowa and the region, and both have extensive experience."

Ostrander fills a restructured position that oversees all external relations, including fund-raising, public relations, marketing, alumni relations, and special events. He replaces the Rev. Al Koeneman '55, who had served as director of development since February 1998, when he agreed to direct the college's development efforts during the presidential transition.

Dr. Ferol Menzel

Menzel will replace Dr. Ronald Matthias '54, who had served for the past year as interim vice president for academic affairs and dean of the faculty.

Ohle said Koeneman and Matthias will assist in planning for Wartburg's 150th anniversary in 2002.

"Rev. Koeneman will serve as a special assistant to the president and coordinate the activities for celebrating our sesquicentennial," Ohle said.

"Dr. Matthias will update the college's written history for publication during the sesquicentennial year."

Honorary degrees conferred

Wartburg honored two longtime faculty members with honorary degrees at May Commencement ceremonies in Schield Stadium. Dr. Herman Diers '49, professor emeritus of religion, is hooded by Dr. Ronald Matthias '54, as President Jack R. Ohle, right, confers the honorary Doctor of Laws and Literature degree. Matthias, professor emeritus of history and most recently interim vice president for academic affairs and dean of the faculty, then received an honorary Doctor of Humane Letters degree.

Professors earn recognition

Art award to Payne

Thomas Payne, chair of the Wartburg art department, won a Communication Arts magazine award of excellence for interactive design.

His interactive computer program, "Sometimes," a photography exhibit on CD-ROM, was one of 37 projects chosen for awards out of 1,200 entries. Samples of Payne's work appeared in an issue of Communication Arts and on a CD-ROM included with the magazine.

Strickert writes national column

Dr. Frederick Strickert, chair of the religion and philosophy department, now writes a regular column on Christianity in the Middle East for The Washington Report on Middle East Affairs.

Published eight times a year by the American Educational Trust, The Washington Report has a circulation of 40,000.

Vallem directs study on welfare reform

Susan Kosche Vallem '66, associate professor and chair of the social work department, is directing a study on the impact of 1996 welfare reform legislation on families in need.

Funded with a $20,000 grant from Aid Association for Lutherans, the study will survey 400 congregations of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America. The goal is to strengthen congregational response to the material and emotional needs of families impacted by welfare reform.

"The passage of welfare reform bills changes how the church meets its call to service," Vallem said. "We do not have a good understanding of what services congregations are already providing. This project will answer those important questions."

The study grew out of two research projects Vallem completed during a 1997-98 sabbatical leave, when she worked as a legislative advocate for domestic policy out of the ELCA's Office for Governmental Affairs in Washington, D.C.

That office and the ELCA Division for Church in Society are involved in the current project.

Waldstein receives state award

Dr. Fredric A. Waldstein '74, director of the Wartburg Institute for Leadership Education, received the 1998 Iowa Distinguished Service in the Field of Volunteerism Award.

The award honors persons who have made a significant impact on volunteerism and community service on a statewide or national basis.

Waldstein has served on the Iowa Commission on Volunteer Service since its inception. He helped establish and serves on the steering committee of the Association of State Service Commissioners. He has been active in the Presidents' Summit for America's Future and in America's Promise, as well as in Leadership Iowa, a program sponsored by the Iowa Association of Business and Industry.

Waldstein is president-elect of Humanities Iowa. He also serves as an advisory board member for the University of Northern Iowa's Leadership Studies Program. He is a charter committee member of Imagine Iowa and a founding member of Iowa Service Learning Partners.

Faculty members receive tenure

Five Wartburg faculty members received tenure and seven were promoted in action by the college's Board of Regents.

Newly tenured faculty include Dr. Daniel Black, assistant professor of physical science; Dr. Karen Black, assistant professor of music; Dr. Craig A. Hancock, associate professor of music; Dr. Paul Hedeen, assistant professor of English; and Dr. Kathryn Kleinhanis, assistant professor of religion.

The Blacks, Hedeen, and Kleinhanis were promoted to associate professor, effective at the beginning of the 1999-00 academic year. Dr. Cheryl Jacobsen, associate professor of history, Dr. Gregory Scholtz, associate professor of English, and Dr. Ted Reuter, associate professor of piano, were promoted to full professor.

The board approved one-year sabbatical leaves for Jacobsen; Dr. Peggy Pruisner, associate professor of education; and Dr. Peggy Tilgner, associate professor of biology.

Faculty members on one-term sabbaticals next year will be Dr. Ronald Alexander, professor of philosophy and religion; Dr. Josef Breutzmann, professor of mathematics and computer science; and Dr. Lynn Olson, professor of mathematics and computer science.

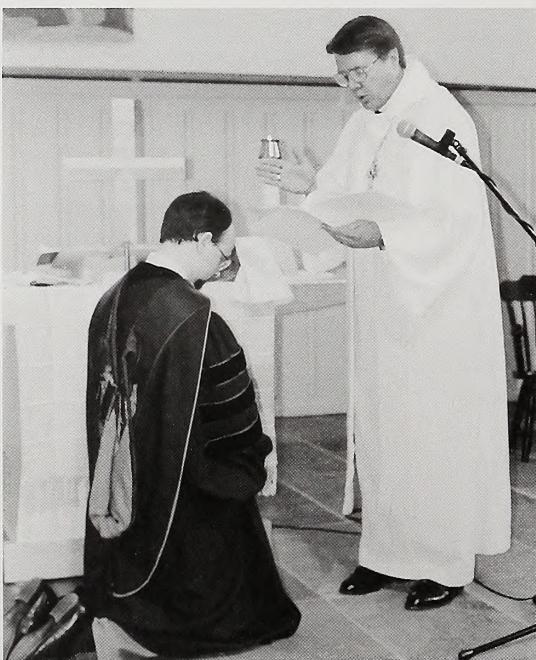

Grants will benefit programs, scholarships

$50,000 from AT&T

Wartburg is part of a three-college consortium benefiting from a $50,000 AT&T Learning Network Teaching and Technology Grant.

The grant, awarded by the Foundation for Independent Higher Education (FIHE), helps fund Collaborative Training for Cooperating Teachers, a technology-assisted training program for teachers who supervise undergraduate student teachers.

Through the program, Wartburg, Luther, and Coe colleges use the Iowa Communications Network (ICN) to develop and deliver five training sessions for 90-plus elementary and secondary teachers in Iowa public and private schools. The goal is to provide information and skills teachers need to be more effective supervisors and better student teaching supervisors. The project also aims to expand the pool of cooperating teachers in Iowa.

Consecrated as diaconal minister

Northeastern Iowa Synod Bishop Steven L. Ullestad '75 consecrates Dr. Lake Lambert as a diaconal minister in the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America during a Feb. 15 worship service in the Wartburg Chapel. Lambert holds the Regents Chair in Ethics, an endowed faculty position that serves all academic departments.

Using the ICN allows the colleges to increase efficiency, reduce costs, and standardize the format of simultaneous supervisor training at multiple sites across the state.

This is the second consecutive year the three-college consortium has received an AT&T Learning Network grant.

$50,000 for Hearst Scholarship

Wartburg has received a second $50,000 grant for its William Randolph Hearst Endowed Scholarship Fund, bringing the Hearst Foundation's total contribution to $100,000 over the past two years.

Money from the fund finances scholarships for students who demonstrate financial need. At current spending rates, the fund will provide a perpetual source of scholarships totaling $6,000 each year.

The Hearst Foundation, Inc., of San Francisco, Calif., was founded in 1945 by publisher and philanthropist William Randolph Hearst. One of its primary focuses is supporting undergraduate education through endowed scholarships at private liberal arts institutions.

$24,600 from AAL

A $24,600 matching grant from Aid Association for Lutherans (AAL) is helping fund a program to revitalize the Wartburg Plan, the college's general education program.

Directed by Dr. Edith J. Waldstein '73, associate dean for academic affairs, the project is designed to raise the quality and increase the effectiveness of the Wartburg Plan. Grant funds underwrite faculty attendance at general education conferences, site visits to campuses that have reworked general education programs, and consultant fees.

98 percent placement reported for Wartburg Class of '98

Placement for the Wartburg Class of '98 reached 98 percent, according to Will Smith, director of career services.

Smith said 294 of the 301 graduates responded to the annual survey, and 98 percent were employed or continuing their education within seven months of leaving Wartburg. A total of 226 were working in business, industry, or social science; and 64 were continuing their education. One person elected not to look for employment or continue in school.

Students experience plight of homeless

Ten students from Wartburg's KWAR-FM staff and Habitat for Humanity chapter staged a March hunger strike outside Old Main to highlight the plight of the homeless. Their goal was to collect one item of non-perishable food for every Wartburg student, faculty, and staff member.

They achieved, then surpassed the goal as they slept in cardboard boxes and sleeping bags near Old Main from 2 p.m. Thursday, March 11, until 2:30 p.m. Friday, March 12.

When all contributions were in, the two organizations distributed 1,807 food and non-food items to the Community Action Center in Waverly and the Cedar Valley Food Bank in Waterloo. They received a $100 cash donation from a woman who learned of the hunger strike through a television news story.

COLD NIGHT—Chris Thomas '01 of Brookfield, Ill., left, and John Borkleske '00 of Swedesburg, right, spent the night of March 11 in a cardboard box outside Old Main as part of a benefit that collected more than 1,800 food and non-food items.

Laube served Wartburg 33 years

John W. Laube '50, who spent 33 years as Wartburg's plant superintendent and supervisor of special projects, died Feb. 23 from complications of cancer.

A Waverly native, Laube attended Wartburg from 1946 to 1948 and played on the Knights varsity basketball team. He served in the U.S. Army during the Korean Conflict. He joined the Wartburg College staff in 1964. He was plant superintendent until 1992 and then supervised special projects until his retirement in 1997. He was a Waverly City Council member for nine years and was the first president of the Wartburg College Credit Union. He was an organizing member of Iowa's Association of Buildings and Grounds Supervisors.

Survivors include his wife, Deloris Peterson '50 Laube; three daughters, Lora Laube '77 of Wrangell, Alaska; JoAnn Laube '79 Brown of Spirit Lake; and Paula Laube '80 Hemingson of Waverly; and four grandchildren.

Reppert pioneered social work program

Lola Carpenter Reppert, professor emerita of social work, died June 4 at her home in Pine Center, Minn. She was 93.

An Iowa native, Reppert graduated from Marshalltown High School in 1924. She earned a Bachelor of Arts degree in English and speech from Grinnell College in 1929 and completed a Master of Social Work degree in 1946 at Washington University, St. Louis, Mo.

Reppert came to Wartburg early in the history of the social work department and served as a part-time instructor from 1946 to 1948. She taught at the University of Iowa from 1948 to 1953 and returned to Wartburg in 1955 after completing additional graduate work at Washington University. She retired in 1972 and settled on her farm near Pine Center.

She remained active in social issues, working with the St. Cloud Children's Home and the Mid-Minnesota Women's Center. In later years, she became interested in environmental issues and also operated an antique store in her barn.

She is survived by a daughter-in-law, Lea Conte Reppert.

Tune in on the Web

<http://www.wartburg.edu/kwar>.

Alumni around the world can now tune into the Wartburg student radio station via the World Wide Web. The station, which broadcasts 24 hours a day at 89.1 on the FM dial, is now available on the Internet.

Dr. Jeff Stein, faculty adviser, said KWAR is one of only a few radio stations in Iowa with live audio streaming. He credited the assistance of Computer Pros in Waverly, which provided technical assistance as well as equipment required for the project.

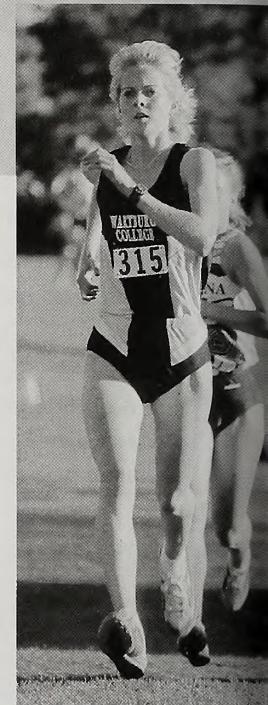

Wuertz volunteers

Wartburg plant superintendent John Wuertz '73 returned to his boyhood home in Puerto Rico for nine days in December to help replace roofs damaged by Hurricane Mitch. Wuertz lived in Puerto Rico for eight years, from 1956 to 1964. His father, the Rev. Arnold Wuertz '44, was a Lutheran missionary there.

Sports Roundup

INJURED STAR—

Winning a sixth Iowa Conference championship in eight years in women's cross country was made even more remarkable by the fact that the Knights' number-one runner all season, Heidi Ludvigsen of Kasson, Minn., suffered a late-season injury and wound up as her team's number-seven runner at the conference meet.

Knights win national title and five conference championships

Wartburg 25th in Sears Directors' Cup Race

It was a banner year for Wartburg athletics. The Knights won a national championship and five Iowa Conference titles. Wartburg retained the Elmer Hertel All-Sports Trophy for overall play in the IIAC men's league and tied for 25th place in the Sears Directors' Cup Race for NCAA Division III.

The Sears Directors' Cup reflects a school's national finish in 18 sports—nine for women and nine for men. Wartburg was the only Iowa school among the top 25. The Knights scored 200 points, including 100 for the national championship in wrestling, to tie Gustavus Adolphus (Minn.), Hobart/William Smith (N.Y.), Johns Hopkins (Md.), and Lincoln (Pa.).

The year started strong with four of the eight sports nationally ranked. The men's and women's cross country teams won IIAC championships, while the football and volleyball teams finished second. The volleyball team went on to participate in the NCAA postseason tournament.

The wrestling team won its seventh consecutive IIAC title to tie a conference record and then captured its second national crown in four years. The women's basketball team made its first postseason tournament appearance since 1994.

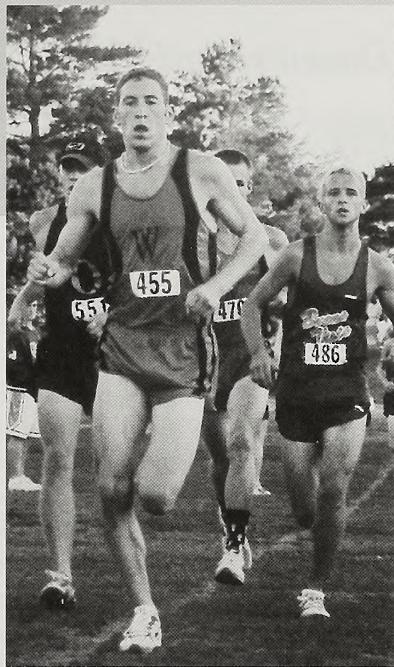

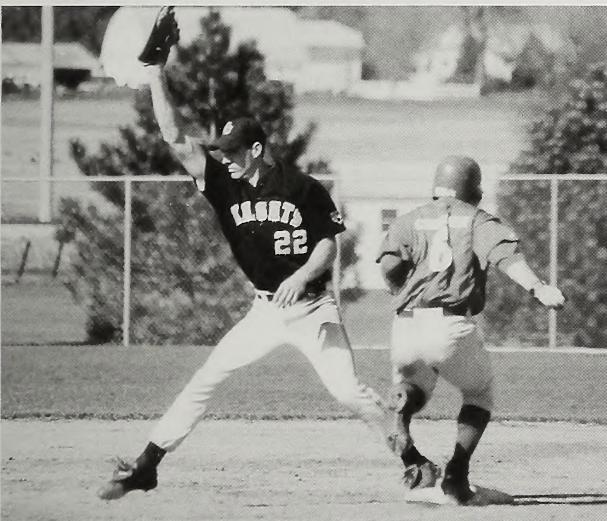

In May, the baseball team staged an exciting comeback to capture its third consecutive IIAC title and qualify for postseason play. The men's track team won its first IIAC championship in the history of the sport. The women, after placing second in the conference, went on to capture eighth place at the NCAA national meet, the highest finish ever for a Wartburg track team—men or women.

EVERY POINT COUNTS—

Tom Zirbel of Clear Lake helps the men's track team win its first Iowa Conference championship by placing second in the 5,000-meter run.

THREE IN A ROW—First baseman Brian Eastman of Waterloo was an integral part of the Wartburg baseball team that won its third straight IIAC championship last spring. Eastman hit .301 while driving in 36 runs and fielding a sparkling .992.

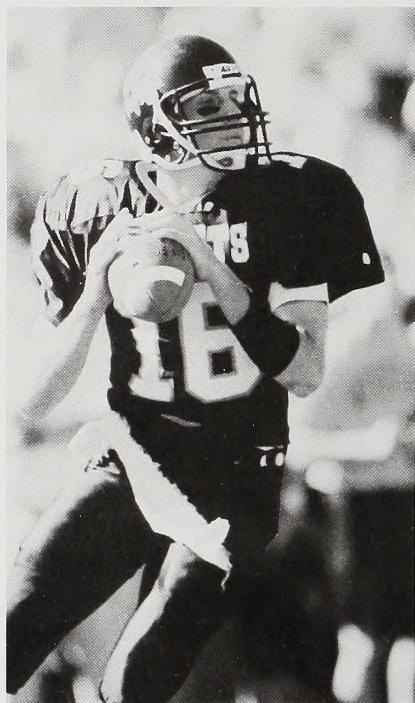

TWO-TIME MVP—

T.J. Craig of Iowa City won his second consecutive individual title and was named the IIAC's Most Valuable Runner for the second straight year as he led the Knights to their seventh Iowa Conference men's championship.

NATIONAL CHAMPIONS—Wartburg wrestlers, coaches, trainers, and President Jack R. Ohle celebrate the Knights' national wrestling championship. Wartburg qualified 10 wrestlers for the national tournament and came home with eight All-Americans, including two national champions, and the NCAA Division III Coach of the Year, Jim Miller.

FOOTBALL: Dozen records fall

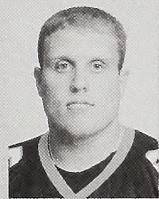

Wartburg's 1998 football team broke or tied a dozen school records during its 9-1 season. Along with the records came a number of impressive national rankings in NCAA Division III.

The team tied a record of 12 consecutive wins set during the 1958 and 1959 seasons. The latest string began with a win over Dubuque Oct. 25, 1997, and ended Nov. 7, 1998, when the Knights suffered their only loss of the season against Central.

NATIONALLY RANKED—

Quarterback Matt Wheeler of West Branch returns to lead the Knights this fall after finishing last season as the nation's third-ranked quarterback in passing efficiency.

Two named to All-America teams; alumnus is Coach of Year

Mark Hargrafen

Wartburg guard Mark Hargrafen of Maquoketa and flanker Ryan Rausch of New Hampton were named to Football Gazette 1998 All-America teams.

Hargrafen made the second team as an offensive lineman, and Rausch made the third team as a return specialist. Hargrafen also was an honorable mention selection on the Hewlett-Packard Division III Team and the USA Football Team. Defensive back/punter Scott Milburn of Newton was an honorable mention pick on the USA Football Team.

Also honored by Football Gazette was Bob Nielson '82, who coached the Knights from 1991 through 1995 and then became head at the University of Wisconsin-Eau Claire. He was named Football Gazette 1998 Coach of the Year after leading his team to a 10-3 record and the national semifinals of the Division III playoffs. It was the first football team at Eau Claire to reach postseason at any level in its 80-year football history.

VOLLEYBALL: Best season ever

The most talented senior class in Wartburg volleyball history led the Knights to their best season ever. The Knights set a school-record 26-4 mark, bettering the 1989 record of 25 wins.

"Our six seniors will eventually realize what an impact they had on Wartburg volleyball," said first-year coach Jennifer Semler, noting that five of the six seniors played together all four years. They helped compile a 97-37 record over four years and took the Knights to their first two NCAA postseason tournaments.

ALL-CONFERENCE—Kayah-Bah Phillmann of Denver was a first-team All-Conference performer in both volleyball and basketball.

Trevor Shannon

Two athletes earn honors

Tailback Trevor Shannon of Fairbank was named to the GTE Academic All-America Football Second Team, and wrestler Zac Weiglein of New Hampton to the GTE Academic All-America Fall/Winter At-Large Third Team by vote of the membership of CoSIDA (College Sports Information Directors of America).

They are among 41 Wartburg athletes to be accorded the Academic All-America honor since 1971. The GTE Academic All-America Team recognizes accomplishment in the classroom as well as on the playing field. Shannon, an accounting and business administration major, had a 3.41 grade point average, while Weiglein, a marketing major, carried a 3.75.

Shannon, a two-time All-Iowa Conference selection had his third 1,000-yard season last fall, rushing 243 times for 1,008 yards and 21 touchdowns. He also became a major receiving threat for the 9-1 Knights with 50 catches for 623 yards and five more touchdowns.

For his career, Shannon rushed for 4,292 yards and 71 touchdowns, caught 82 passes for 1,037 yards and eight additional touchdowns, and returned 37 kickoffs for 964 yards and one touchdown. All told, he had 6,293 all-purpose yards and scored 484 points for the Knights.

On the mat, Weiglein, a two-time Iowa Conference champion and NCAA All-American, won a national championship in March at 125 after placing third at 118 as a sophomore. His 1998-99 record was 27-1, and his career record is 76-9 with 19 pins and his senior season remaining.

CROSS COUNTRY: Teams sweep

Wartburg became the first school in the Iowa Conference to ever win the men's and women's varsity and junior varsity races at the IIAC meet. The Knights swept the varsity races for the third time in conference history.

"What was most exciting about this meet is that we had to overcome illness and injury to do it," said coach Steve Johnson, who was named Coach of the Year for both the men and women.

The women's team swept fourth through ninth place to win six IIAC medals (awarded to the top 10 finishers) and placed five more runners among the top 22 finishers.

Wartburg has won nine of 18 IIAC cross country championships over the last nine years.

SOCCER: Mintah sets records

Ishmael Mintah

The Wartburg men's soccer squad finished 6-12 in all matches, 3-8 in the Iowa Conference, but had all-star performances from forward Ishmael Mintah of Cedar Falls.

Mintah, who just finished his sophomore year, already holds the career record for shots with 256 and is just 12 goals short of the school record for career goals. Last fall, he scored 21 goals and took 157 shots, both school records. He also had seven assists for a team-high 49 points. His father, Joseph, coaches the team.

First-year women's soccer coach Keri Douglas watched her charges struggle through a 3-12 season, including a 1-8 Iowa Conference record.

GOLF: Men settle for sixth

The Knights finished sixth in the Iowa Conference tournament during the first season under coach Mark Franzen '94.

Wartburg shot a 667 during the first 36 holes at Gates Park in Waterloo and 634 for the second 36 holes.

Women nationally ranked for team grade point average

The 1997-98 women's basketball team ranked fourth in the nation among NCAA Division III schools for academic grade point average by the Women's Basketball Coaches Association. The Knights had a team grade point average of 3.501. Wartburg led the nation in the 1996-97 WBCA survey.

WOMEN'S BASKETBALL:

Knights make playoffs

STAR OF THE FUTURE—Forward Molly Mason (12) of Naperville, Ill., one of two returning starters from last year's 20-5 women's basketball team, is expected to be one of leaders for coach Monica Severson. Mason averaged 7.6 points and 3.2 rebounds as a sophomore.

TENNIS: Fifth-place finish

The 1998 women's tennis team placed fifth in the Iowa Conference and finished 6-5 in dual meet competition under first-year coach Steve McKinstry.

Winning IIAC medals were Amy Taylor of Waverly, third in the fourth flight singles, and a doubles team of Rachel Kammerer of Albert Lea, Minn., and Kristi Kischer of Atlantic in the second flight.

In most years, the Knights' 17-3 Iowa Conference record would have resulted in a women's basketball title. Instead, the Knights settled for second in the conference and a berth in the NCAA Division III tournament as Simpson completed a perfect 20-0 season.

The Knights hosted the first-round tournament game, losing to St. Thomas (Minn.).

Wartburg was 20-5 in all games, the seventh time in coach Monica Severson's 11 seasons that the Knights won 20 or more games.

"Any time a team has six seniors who provide leadership, it should be good," said Severson. "There is no question the seniors were key to our success."

Four of Wartburg's five losses were to teams ranked at one time or another in the nation's top 10 (Simpson twice, University of Wisconsin-Oshkosh, and St. Thomas).

WRESTLING: National champions

Two days of ups and downs, highs and lows, big wins and tough losses, ended just right for the Wartburg wrestling team, winner of its second NCAA Division III national championship in four years.

Ironically, the Knights edged defending champion Augsburg by a point-and-a-half, 117.5-116, a turnaround from 1993 and 1994, when Wartburg lost national titles by less than two points each year.

Wartburg brought home a school-record eight All-Americans, including national champions Zac Weiglein of New Hampton at 125 and Ben Shane of Iowa Falls at 149.

Nick Mitchell of Johnston finished as a runner-up at 141. Josh Dodd of Northwood at 197 and Stanislav Khaitlin of Pardes-Hanna, Israel, at 133, each finished third. Brandon Holmberg of Buffalo, Minn., was fourth at 184, with Ryan Hess of Belle Chasse, La., fifth at 157, and Kris O'Rear of Hixson, Tenn., sixth at heavyweight.

After compiling a 17-1 dual meet record, the Knights tied an Iowa Conference record by winning their seventh straight league title with a conference record 199.5 points.

Wartburg qualified all 10 wrestlers for the national tournament at the IIAC tourney with six champions, Weiglein, Khaitlin, Mitchell, Shane, Dodd, and O'Rear; and three runners-up, Hess, Ben Jobgen of Davenport at 174 and Holmberg. Chris Smith of Sumner was selected as an at-large wrestler by the league coaches. Hess was held out of the championship match because of an injury.

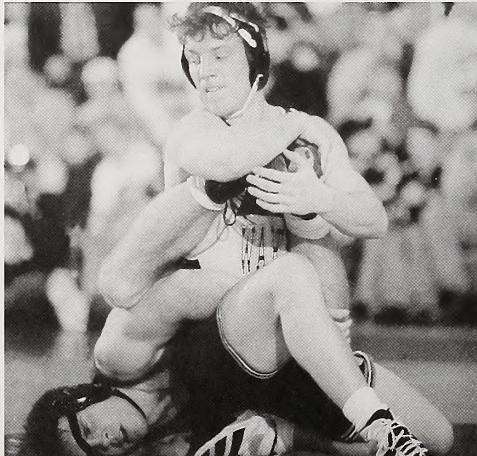

Injuries were a factor all during the national tournament, but as Miller pointed out, "This group just found ways to win."

Behind by as much as 16 points during the tournament at the College of New Jersey, the Knights battled back to within two-and-a-half points at the beginning of the finals. They went ahead on Weiglein's win at 125 but fell behind when an Augsburg wrestler won the next weight.

SCHOLAR ALL-AMERICAN—Ben Jobgen of Davenport proves that the Wartburg wrestling team excels in the classroom as well as on the mat. For the second straight year, he was named to the Scholar All-America Team.

Wartburg recaptured the lead with Shane's win at 149. The first-place trophy was secured when Ryan Birt of Upper Iowa defeated Nik Lewandowski of Augsburg at 184.

"It was a thrill that I will never forget," Miller said, "a highlight for me, our staff, and athletes. It was a great team effort that took everything we had."

MEN'S BASKETBALL:
Injuries hamper season

Strapped by injuries, the men's basketball team still managed a 12-7 record before dropping five of its last six games.

Missing as many as three starters in several games with a fourth hobbled all season by a knee injury, the Knights did not give up. They lost seven contests by a total of only 18 points and at one stretch played overtimes in five of eight games.

Wartburg completed its season with a 13-12 record in all games, finishing 11-7 in the Iowa Conference to take fourth place.

"I think we made some improvements in the program," said second-year coach Dick Peth. "We had our first recruiting class and were happy with those players. We hope we can build on that again with this year's class."

OVERCOMING INJURIES—Guard Ryan Schultz of Cedar Falls was one of those players who kept Wartburg above .500 despite a rash of injuries. Hobbled by a leg injury all season long, Schultz still averaged 6.2 points per game.

BASEBALL: Third IIAC championship

Less than two weeks after being considered "dead in the water," the 1999 Wartburg baseball team went on a tear to capture its third straight Iowa Conference championship and make its third consecutive NCAA postseason tournament.

The Knights lost four in a row before winning 13 of 14 games, including the last 11 in a row, to overtake Simpson in the season-ending IIAC tourney. Wartburg finished with a 33-13-1 overall record, 17-6 in the conference.

Simpson led by a game-and-a-half going into the tournament but lost two in a row as the Knights posted four wins. Revenge came at the NCAA Central Regional, where Simpson defeated the Knights 6-4 in the first round. Carthage (Wis.) then eliminated the Knights 14-4.

TRACK:

*Men win first conference title
Women finish eighth in nation*

The men's track team won its first-ever Iowa Conference championship over Central 174-153. The women finished second to Loras, but picked up the pace and finished eighth in the nation at the NCAA Division III Track and Field Meet, hosted by Baldwin-Wallace College in Berea, Ohio. The women scored 24 points and brought home seven All-Americans. Their highest previous national finish was 12th in 1998.

For the men, Miradieu Joseph of Lake Worth, Fla., won All-America status in two events at the national meet. Joseph placed fifth in the 400 and sixth in the 200.

ALL-AMERICANS—Hurdlers Jeanette Olson of Decorah (left) and Sommer Baxton of Forest City (right) earned All-America honors at the national NCAA meet this spring. Both were members of the fourth-place 1,600m relay team. Baxton also placed fourth in the 400m hurdles.

Alumni coaches win championships

Two 1980 Wartburg graduates coached their teams to state championships for Benton Community Schools in Van Horne last year. Gary Zittergruen's softball team took the 1998 Class A state title, while Marty Thomae coached the state champion girls cross country team.

Zittergruen is the high school principal. Thomae teaches seventh-grade mathematics and also serves as an assistant softball coach.

Men win conference all-sports trophy for second consecutive year

Wartburg won four Iowa Conference men's championships in 1998-99 to capture the league's Elmer Hertel All-Sports Trophy for the second consecutive year.

The Knights compiled 76.5 points in the conference all-sports standings. They finished in the upper division in eight of the nine men's sports and won championships in baseball, cross country, track and field, and wrestling. Loras and Luther tied for second with 69 points.

Wartburg has won or shared the men's trophy five times since its establishment in 1970-71.

In the women's league, the Knights finished third with 62.5 points. The Wartburg women won the cross country title and finished second in basketball, track and field, and volleyball. Luther placed first with 71.5 points, and Simpson was second with 65.5.

TENNIS: Men finish eighth

Wartburg finished eighth in the Iowa Conference tournament and won a medal at a second flighted tournament.

The Knights opened play in the team tournament by defeating Upper Iowa 4-0 but dropped succeeding matches to Coe 4-0, Simpson 4-2, and Buena Vista 4-0.

In the flighted tournament, Todd Benson of Eaton, Colo., placed second in the B Flight, losing to Srivatsas Sharraan of Luther 6-4, 6-1. Benson made it to the championship match by defeating Mark Hazelton of Buena Vista, Ryan McCaulley of Buena Vista, and Vaske Jered of Central.

SOFTBALL: Simpson win highlights season

The Wartburg softball team won its last five games, including a 5-3 decision over national champion Simpson, to finish at the .500 mark.

The Knights were 21-21 in all games and 9-11 in the Iowa Conference, tying William Penn for sixth place.

WOMEN'S GOLF: Team takes sixth

Coach Todd Reiher was pleased with his squad's effort in the 1998 IIAC Tournament at Dubuque. The Knights shot a 435 and a 404, placing sixth with a tournament total of 844.

Sarah Black of Independence led the team with a 192, which ranked her 17th among all individuals.

Six staff appointments announced

Al Buening '64

Senior Development Officer

A former senior vice president/operations of the Denver, Colo., YMCA, Buening most recently worked in financial planning and investments. His primary focus at Wartburg is in gift planning.

After graduating from Wartburg in 1964, Buening taught English and coached at Independence for five years. He completed a Master of Arts degree at the University of Northern Iowa in 1968.

In 1969, he began a nearly 30-year administrative career with the YMCA, directing programs in Michigan, Minnesota, Iowa, Wisconsin, and Colorado.

In 1997, he joined G.E. Buening and Allmerica Financial in Denver as a sales representative, working with individuals and small businesses through CPA firms and locally-owned banks. His areas of focus included personal and business investments, pension development, estate planning, insurance, and trust work.

Penny Prior

Director of Annual Giving

Prior had worked for the past three years as associate for alumni and development at Wartburg. She became director of annual giving April 1, following the departure of Brian MacGregor, now vice president for resource development at Lutheran Social Services in Des Moines.

She is a University of Iowa graduate and worked in the Ethnic Minorities Cultural and Educational Center at the University of Northern Iowa and as a paralegal in Waterloo before joining the Wartburg staff in 1996.

Janeen Stewart

Executive Director,
Commission Wartburg

Stewart had worked for the past 10 years in the University of Northern Iowa Office of Public Relations, most recently as interim director of publication services. She also served for five years as marketing projects coordinator. At Wartburg, she coordinates the activities of the eight task forces that comprise Commission Wartburg, a long-range planning process that began in April, and serves as assistant to the president.

She earned a Bachelor of Science degree in journalism from Iowa State University and worked for two years at Oster Communications, Cedar Falls, as assistant editor of Futures magazine.

Carol Wessels Bye '66

Assistant Director of Alumni and Parent Relations

Bye formerly taught in the Mason City Schools for 26 years, most recently middle school social studies, math, and communications. She spent three years as a clinical supervisor of student teachers and education instructor, first at the University of Northern Iowa from 1989 to 1991 and then at Wartburg in 1995-96.

After graduating from Wartburg in 1966, she taught French and English at Waverly-Shell Rock High School for a year before moving to Mason City. She earned a Master of Arts degree from the University of Iowa.

Bye will work with programs involving alumni, parents, and students.

Randy Schneider '87

Admissions Counselor

Schneider covers Northeast Iowa for admissions. He replaces Tim Hauber '82, now director of admissions at Loras College in Dubuque.

As an assistant football coach with the Knights from 1996 to 1998, Schneider served as athletic recruiting coordinator. He has been an assistant baseball coach since 1996 and assisted in softball in 1994 and 1995.

He also has coached and taught at Waverly-Shell Rock High School, Allison-Bristow High School, and Ripon College in Wisconsin.

Prior to accepting the position in admissions, he was national sales manager of Videopro in Waverly, a company specializing in video production of sporting events nationwide.

Access Services Supervisor

Meyers, who had worked at the Cedar Falls library for two years, is a graduate of Catherine Spalding College. At the Wartburg library, she replaced Kathy Schaufenbuel, who accepted another position.

Inauguration Wartburg

Celebrating the college's rich heritage with the installation of its 15th president

Jack R. Ohle

April 8-11, 1999

Celebration inaugurates president, begins planning process for future

Jack R. Ohle was installed as Wartburg's 15th president on Saturday, April 10. The ceremony was part of a four-day celebration that began Thursday, April 8, and ran through Sunday, April 11.

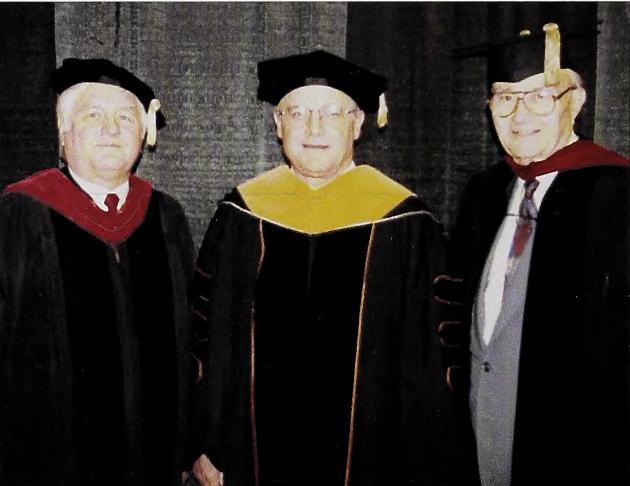

Setting the tone for events to follow was Dr. Martin Marty, Lutheran theologian and author, who spoke at a Thursday symposium on "The Place Where You Get To 'Go Deep': The Church-Related College at the Millennial Turn." That evening, President Ohle and his wife, Kris, hosted a dinner for students in the Fieldhouse with Wartburg faculty and staff members serving the meal.

Friday marked the first meeting of Commission Wartburg, a comprehensive planning effort involving nearly 250 Wartburg alumni and other friends of the college. Eight task forces have begun an examination of Wartburg's strengths and needs and will make recommendations to the Board of Regents regarding the college's future advancement. Dr. Ross D. Christensen of Waterloo, former chair of the Board of Regents, serves as national chairman of Commission Wartburg. At a Friday evening dinner, Dr. John W. White, Jr., president emeritus of Nebraska Wesleyan University, outlined the planning process in his address, "How Best To Get from Here to There."

On Saturday, Dr. Myron Marty, Ann G. and Sigurd E. Anderson University Professor at Drake University, offered remarks at an inaugural luncheon for Wartburg faculty and inaugural delegates representing more than 70 colleges and universities.

Saturday afternoon's installation ceremony in Knights Gymnasium included the premiere performance of a commissioned work by Matthew Armstrong of the Wartburg music faculty. Entitled Lord of Creation, it featured the president's son, John Michael Ohle, as soloist, along with the college's combined choirs, a brass ensemble, and Dr. Karen Black, college organist. Two former Wartburg presidents, Dr. Robert Vogel and Dr. John Bachman, were present for the occasion. The day concluded with a festive inaugural dinner in the Fieldhouse.

Dr. Walter F. Taylor, Jr., professor of New Testament studies at Trinity Lutheran Seminary in Columbus, Ohio, preached at an Inauguration Wartburg festival worship Sunday morning. The Rev. Steven Ulleststad '75, bishop of the Northeastern Iowa Synod of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America, was the presiding minister.

What Does Wartburg Value?

Inaugural Address

by Jack R. Ohle

April 10, 1999

"We are not yet what we shall be, but we are growing toward it."

These words of Martin Luther provide an appropriate perspective for us as we "Celebrate Wartburg" on this special occasion. The inaugural weekend activities and this installation ceremony highlight for us the rich and strong heritage of Wartburg College and the potential we have to move this institution to greater heights and to greater prominence.

For almost 150 years, Wartburg College has stood for what is valued in our society, and Luther's words give us hope that we can reach beyond where we are today. To do so, we must examine what we value for our future and commit ourselves to reaching new levels of excellence.

"We are not yet what we shall be, but we are growing toward it."

The year was 1521. The setting: the Imperial Diet of Worms. Martin Luther was on the stand defending his teachings and writings, which many considered outrageous and in opposition to the teachings of Rome. Luther stood before the emperor of the Holy Roman Empire, Charles V, in a trial as audacious as the name suggests: the Imperial Diet of Worms. An impassioned professor of scripture at the University of Wittenberg, Martin Luther was the vortex in a swirl of controversy about who should read the Bible. After the trial, his close friends and colleagues, fearing for his safety, took Luther to the Wartburg Castle. At the Castle, he translated the New Testament into German.

Much in Martin Luther's life reflects what this institution, Wartburg College, values. We draw our name from his place of refuge. There, in a cold and drafty room with wooden walls and a stone floor, Martin Luther went about his task of translating the Bible into German. He wanted the Bible to be accessible to all people. He wanted the people to read the scripture. Such a desire for learning was the seed of education that he felt should be available to all, not just the clergy and the royalty.

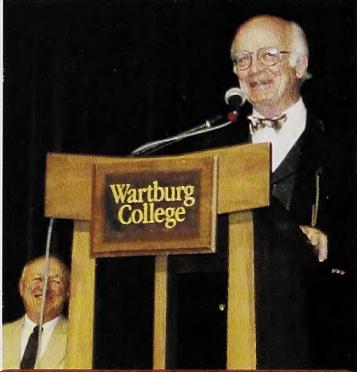

Such a desire for learning is the foundation upon which this institution was founded.

Dr. C. H. Becker, the 11th president of Wartburg College and president during the centennial celebration in 1952, wrote the epilogue to the Centennial History by Dr. Gerhard Ottersberg, the college's beloved professor of history. In it, Becker said, "The college was founded to educate workers for the Church who would be strong in faith, well-trained intellectually, and devoted to the ideals of service." Faith and learning and service—all are principles upon which we were founded.

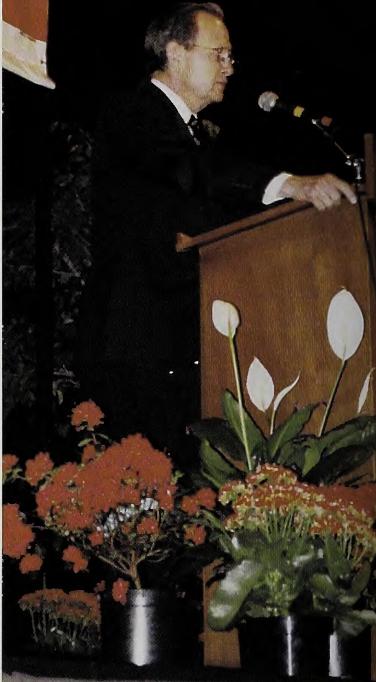

With that as our reference, what is it today about the Wartburg experience that is so compelling, as compelling as it was almost 150 years ago?

What does Wartburg value today? Wartburg College values challenging and nurturing students for lives of leadership and service as a spirited expression of their faith and learning. That is our mission, and we must, as we look to the future, renew our commitment to that mission.

Symposium

Student Dinner

SYMPORIUM SPEAKER—Dr. Martin Marty, upper left, evoked a laugh from College Pastor Larry Trachte '66 at a symposium that opened the Inauguration Wartburg celebration.

STUDENT DINNER—The Food Service staff, left, prepared and served more than 2,500 meals during the weekend. Dr. Ann Henninger, center, professor of biology, joined faculty and staff colleagues who served a meal to Wartburg students on Thursday evening. The Fieldhouse, right, was transformed into a banquet hall for Inauguration Wartburg.

Wartburg College takes that irrepressible thirst for knowledge and understanding, for the connection with one's own faith, as seriously in 1999 as it did in 1852. And we translate that thirst into a college education based in the best of Christian values today.

In mentioning the college's mission, I cannot help but think back to almost exactly one year ago. Fred Hagemann had called to advise me that the Search Committee would like to meet with me about being a candidate for the presidency of Wartburg College. The date was April 1. I sensed from my first meeting with Fred and the committee that there was something very special about Wartburg. In the year since, I can tell you that there truly is something special about Wartburg. As a college of the Church, we are focused on our mission. Students, faculty, staff, and board members can quote the mission, if not verbatim, in its essence. I want to thank Fred, the Search Committee, and the Board of Regents for giving Kris and me the opportunity to become part of an institution that is very special. It has an ethos, a culture, that is hard to describe, but you know it once you have been a part of it.

This inaugural weekend and this installation ceremony provide us the opportunity to "Celebrate Wartburg": To celebrate our uniqueness; to look back, but also to look ahead; to understand our past but look to the future with promise.

We gather to celebrate what we value. Wartburg College values learning and one's own faith. Wartburg College values expanding minds and changing lives.

Just down the road in Waterloo, Iowa, we have an example of what it means to change lives. The Waterloo Teachers Project at Wartburg College provided an opportunity for 25 men and women to reach beyond their day-to-day existence. They had good jobs and served the community. A number were teacher associates already committed to the Waterloo school system. One was a mother of 10 children who wanted to give something back. All were people of color. Most importantly, though, they wanted to find their place in a school, in the front of the classroom, teaching, inspiring, and nurturing young lives.

The Waterloo Teachers Project has been a cooperative program with the Waterloo School District. Since it was established in 1994, six participants have graduated from Wartburg and another 11 will graduate this May. These men and women are realizing a dream through their own education and through teaching others. It is my hope that we can continue to reach out through similar opportunities. We must all look for ways to make a college education possible for anyone who has a dream like the graduates of our Waterloo Teachers Project. Wartburg College values changing lives.

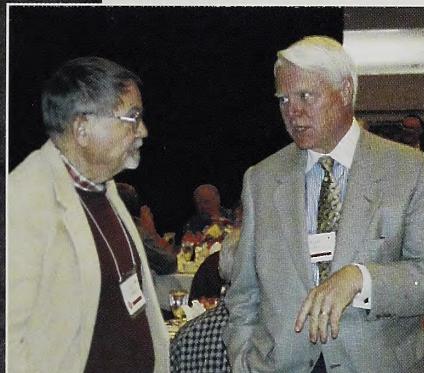

In a public climate that is prone to attack the learning enterprise and to place a business model upon intellectual pursuit, we at Wartburg value learning and the liberal arts.

On one level, one can argue whether a liberal arts education has financial value. But, in fact, a study of liberal arts graduates shows that they move more quickly up the career ladder and earn significantly higher salaries than their more vocationally trained colleagues. More importantly, I believe the liberal arts college seeks to instill in students a sense of service and social responsibility. Thus, education is not just a means to advancing one's personal and professional goals, it is also a way to improve the very fabric of our society.

There is enormous tension between two ways of defining and measuring the value of higher education. One debate revolves around the long-term value of broad-based liberal education versus the immediate value of a more focused and market-relevant education that provides one the skills to simply get a job.

The second debate about the value of higher education concerns the way to measure value. Does it lie in "inputs," such as entrance test scores and reputation, or are "outputs" assessment and talent development the real test of value?

Last September, when I stood before the Wartburg faculty at my first faculty meeting, I asked them to spend this year examining our general education program, the Wartburg Plan, a plan that has served us well for almost 20 years. They have taken their task seriously and have drafted what I feel is a framework upon which we can build for the future. The Wartburg Plan has been the heart and soul of our liberal arts curriculum. The faculty has taken the strengths of that plan and enriched the possibilities for developing a revised plan that can move us to the next level of academic prominence. To the members of the faculty, thank you for your efforts. We make real such a plan by providing the resources to develop and implement new courses and revise many of those we already have. I pledge to you that we will work together with the Board of Regents to provide both the financial resources and the staff resources to do just that. The model you have developed will enable our external planning process to proceed, rooted in the realities of our academic programs and strengths. Wartburg College values the liberal arts.

It has been suggested that at a time of national debate over costs, quality, value, and direction of a college education, when all the arguments are in, all the pros and cons about price and cost, educational technology, the right balance between research and teaching, student services, financial aid, and reputational rankings finally subside, what will remain central to the enterprise is learning—the simplest and most basic function of what students do during their time at college. Learning is a foundation upon which this institution was built.

Wartburg values what students do during their time in college. That's why we insist on a quality learning experience. That's why I am committed to keep a strong student-to-faculty ratio. I am committed to maintaining small classes, where students can learn and be participants in the learning process. Learning happens best when it is personalized. And our faculty is dedicated to challenging and nurturing students—an essential part of our mission.

Wartburg also values learning through service. It is no coincidence that one of our most popular residence halls requires a year-long service project, complete with an approved proposal that outlines the project and provides for an evaluation of the outcomes.

In addition to service, Wartburg values learning through leadership. There is nothing like getting out of your comfort zone to learn leadership. Just 500 miles to the west, in Denver, Colo., 20 Wartburg students live and work each term in an intense semester internship program called Wartburg West. Kris and I have had the opportunity to visit Wartburg West and talk with the students. There is something special about the opportunities our students have in this program. Whether they are doing an internship in the inner-city, working in a social agency, student teaching in a bilingual school, or working in a 60-story downtown office building, they are experiencing something they cannot experience on our campus. They also take classes from the two full-time faculty members who live in Denver and direct and coordinate the program. This term, we have purchased an apartment building in the inner-city of Denver, where we can be assured of good housing and easy access to an educational opportunity that ties together our mission of challenging and nurturing students for lives of leadership and service.

Our existence at Wartburg is rooted in the service orientation of the Church. It is part of the reason for our integration of service with faith and learning. The service we value extends across the globe. We are literally involved in educating for the world. On this Northeast Iowa campus of approximately 1,550 students, we have students from 30 different countries. Just two months ago, we honored the First Lady of Tanzania with the Graven Award, recognizing her commitment to humanitarian projects and her service to education in Africa.

Last May, a group of students studied in Tanzania. One of those students, an education major from Kansas City, was not only moved himself to do something about the needs of the children in Tanzania--he got his mother so excited that she is working with a group from her church, putting together school bags with books, paper, pencils, and other supplies for the children in Tanzania and having them sent overseas by Operation Boot Strap.

Other students are now making regular gifts to a rehabilitation center, and others to an adoption center, which they visited during their May Term in Tanzania. These are only a few examples of the integration of service and learning valued by Wartburg College, its faculty, and its students.

At Wartburg College, we value teaching. Teaching at Wartburg is at the heart of the enterprise. I have discovered a faculty that is committed to students, providing them every opportunity to learn, in and out of the classroom—a faculty that challenges students academically, but takes to heart the importance of nurturing students at the same time. I have discovered a faculty that pushes students to reach beyond their comfort zone—a faculty that works with students on their academic projects, their research, their field experiences. Words like "collaborative learning, interactive learning, innovative learning through the use of technology" are ways to describe this faculty. We will work to provide the financial and human resources necessary to support great teaching.

GREETINGS FROM CASE—Dr. Eustace Theodore, president of the Council for Advancement and Support of Education, congratulates President Ohle, who serves as treasurer of the international organization.

An educational institution is more than simply a business enterprise. Yet, a college must exist in order to serve. Unless a college operates on the principles of sound business, marketing, and investment strategy, it will cease to exist and no one's life will be improved.

Wartburg values not only teaching, leadership, and service, but we value a self-perpetuating legacy. I take to heart the truth that the sound management and leadership of this college ultimately and appropriately fall upon the president's shoulders. I pledge to you my utmost effort.

The president's medal that hangs around my neck carries with it not only the promise of the future but the weight of the past. I asked when I came to Wartburg what the tradition had been regarding a president's medal. I learned that one was created and first introduced when Dr. Bachman was inaugurated as the 12th president of the college in 1964. Dr. Bachman, his successor, Dr. William Jellema, and my predecessor, Dr. Robert Vogel, have all worn the same president's medal. I wear the same medal, but it has a newly designed necklace, a silver chain crafted to represent the strength of our past. There are 15 medallions in the chain—one for each of the presidents who has served Wartburg College. On the face of each medallion is the Luther rose. The back of each medallion is inscribed with a president's name and years of service.

I am honored that both President Bachman and President Vogel have joined us today for this "Celebration of Wartburg." For an institution that is almost 150 years old to have now had only 15 presidents is, in itself, a statement of strength. For three of us to be participating in today's ceremony is significant to me. I want to personally thank Dr. Bachman and Dr. Vogel for their strong leadership over the years and for providing the foundation upon which we can build for tomorrow.

Now, let's take just a few minutes to look at what we face as we strive to reach new heights. The climate for support of higher education today has never been more intense. The actual cost of a college education is fast outpacing tuition hikes. If tuition increases only at the rate of inflation and cost increases continue at their current rate, college and university budgets will run out of control. While it is expected that more students will go to college in the coming years, fewer of them will be able to pay the full cost of four years of education.

In addition to the challenges we face in pricing higher education and reducing our costs, the competition for students is at an all-time high. That is why our Board of Regents has approved a plan to fully wire the Wartburg campus with fiber optic technology so that we can compete and provide our students with access to the Internet and other technologies. We will have a computer port in every room for every student on our campus. We will, over time, introduce what some call "smart classrooms," where students will have access to cutting-edge technology. We must continue to plan for equipping our students to compete in a competitive world.

All of these cost concerns are compounded because of the need to help students pay for their education. Every time we increase our tuition, we run the risk of losing a significant number of students who feel they cannot pay the cost. To offset the cost of education today, institutions like Wartburg must rely heavily on financial aid. The support many of you have given over the years has provided a base upon which we can build. In fact, Wartburg's endowment has grown to almost $30 million. This year, we received the largest gift ever given by an individual—more than $2 million that will go to the college's permanent endowment. It is because of the support of those who have gone before us that we can look to the future with promise.

It is essential that we protect Wartburg's immediate and long-term future by strengthening our annual operating resources as well as our endowment. The planning process that we initiated yesterday will provide a blueprint from which we will identify the college's future needs. We must secure the resources that will strengthen the college and provide the funding for faculty development, academic program development, and student financial aid. We face pressures to improve our academic facilities and residence halls, to upgrade our athletic, wellness, and recreational facilities, and to provide adequate space for student activities. New and renovated buildings will change the face of our campus in the years ahead.

We must also look to collaborative partnerships as a part of our strategy for moving into the next millennium. Private higher education must become more collaborative to compete. There is strength in collaboration. That is why I will encourage us to look for opportunities to share resources, institutional strengths, and assets.

Wartburg College values accountability. We have an ever-increasing obligation to be responsible and careful stewards of our resources. Those who invest in Wartburg College must be assured of our responsible management of their generous gifts and of our careful teaching of their students. Now, more than ever, we must be responsive to the public. Just 20 percent of college students in this country attend an independent private institution like Wartburg. That's a big change from the pre-World War II era, when the enrollment percentages were almost exactly half public and half private. Our pressures and challenges are greater than ever before.

Many of you have heard me say that Wartburg College is a beautiful tapestry. The fabric of this institution will be forever changed by what we do in the future. Every thread in the tapestry of this institution brings beauty to the whole cloth. Ours is a finely woven tapestry whose threads taken together stand the test of time. We know who we are and what we are about. We know what is important. It is to challenge and nurture students for lives of leadership and service as a spirited expression of their faith and learning.

That is what Wartburg values.

Kris and I pledge to you on this auspicious day that we will do our best and most creative work during our time as the weavers of the Wartburg tapestry. With God's help and your support, we will create a glorious and shimmering light in this community, in this state, in the region, and around the world, as a college of the Church.

"We are not yet what we shall be, but we are growing toward it."

Alumni Association will award four citations at Homecoming

Three alumni and a close friend of the college will receive citations from the Wartburg Alumni Association at the Homecoming Alumni Dinner Friday, Oct. 15. The citations recognize contributions and support to the college, vocational and professional achievements, and community and/or church leadership.

Dr. Frederick E. Schoenbohm '26 Clinton, Iowa

Schoenbohm fathered Wartburg's music tradition, taking over the fledgling music department on the Clinton campus in 1929. Two of his groups, a male chorus and a male quartet, were the college's first touring music organizations.

He developed an a cappella male chorus of students from Wartburg Seminary in Dubuque and the college campus in Clinton and also organized a civic Apollo Choral Society comprised of Clinton residents and Wartburg students. That group's presentation of The Messiah was a holiday tradition in the Clinton community for more than 20 years.

When Wartburg moved to Waverly in 1935, Schoenbohm entered the ministry and served parishes in Iowa, Indiana, and Illinois until retiring in 1972. During 10 years of retirement in Florida, he was organist at the Oviedo Methodist Church. After he and his wife returned to Clinton in 1982, he served as a visitation pastor.

Schoenbohm earned a Master of Music degree in 1933 at the Sherwood Music School in Chicago. In 1960, he received an honorary Doctor of Divinity degree from Wartburg Seminary, recognizing his work in organizing seven mission congregations.

Grace Jahn Kurtz '61 New Brighton, Minn.

Kurtz works in the St. Paul, Minn., schools as district library specialist for the Instructional Media and Technology Department.

A year ago, she was interim assistant director of school media and technology, responsible for training, equipping, and supervising media centers and libraries that served 48,000 students in 58 schools. She previously served seven schools as librarian and media specialist.

Her work with the Frost Lake Magnet School, one of the first Native American magnet schools in a metropolitan center, is particularly noteworthy. She also serves as a board member and committee chair of Friends of the Kerlan Collection, a support organization for the University of Minnesota Children's Literature Research Collections.

Kurtz is a board member and past officer of the League of Women Voters and president of St. Philip's Lutheran Church, a 3,000-member congregation in Fridley.

Rachel Riensche '80 Edina, Minn.

She has been with the company for 19 years, first as an editor and then in various aspects of copyright administration. She currently heads the unit responsible for copyrights, trademarks, contracts, permissions, royalties, archives, and other systems associated with corporate reports and records.

A graduate of the William Mitchell College of Law in St. Paul, Minn., Reinsche is a member of the Hennepin County and American Bar Associations and is active in the state bar's Art and Entertainment Law Committee.

The Rev. J. David Pepper Lawler, Iowa

Although he graduated from Loras College in Dubuque, Father Pepper has had a long-standing relationship with Wartburg College, particularly while serving as pastor of St. Mary's Catholic Church in Waverly from 1978 to 1988.

During that time, he promoted ecumenical events that united Catholics and Lutherans in combined fellowship, and he developed a lasting friendship with College Pastor Larry Trachte '66, who shares Pepper's concern for the spiritual growth of youth. In 1979, the two traveled together on the Wartburg bus to see Pope John Paul II in Des Moines. That trip planted the seed for a joint gift to Wartburg by Father Pepper, the Trachte family, and Mike and Ann Sheehan of Waverly—a sculpture of "Dancing St. Francis" that stands in the south campus courtyard.

Alumnus publishes novel on "lost church"

The Rev. Rick E. Miller '89 of Ankeny has written a novel, Raiders of the Lost Church, a short mystery that offers food for thought about the "lost church."

The main character, Gordon Delevar, is a retiring church archivist. During a career of documenting the decline and closure of local churches, he discovers clues about the location of a church where the "true, real, and authentic" version of Christianity was practiced.

The Rev. Paul M. Werger, bishop emeritus of the Southeastern Iowa Synod, ELCA, called Miller's book "compelling." Werger said Miller's description of a church council meeting was so accurate that as he read it, "I felt the knot tighten in my stomach."

Dr. Durwood Buchheim '53, retired professor at Wartburg Theological Seminary, noted, "It is a rare book that I read twice from cover to cover. It has a ring of authenticity and genuineness. You know a lot about rural people, small churches, and communities. You have an ability to translate those experiences into carefully crafted phrases and sentences, so that we can experience them."

The 94-page paperback is available for $12.95 (shipping, handling, and tax included). Call 1-800-929-7889 (Mastercard and Visa accepted). The book is also available at the Wartburg Bookstore.

Wartburg at ELCA gatherings

Wartburg College will host a reception at the ELCA National Assembly in Denver, Colo. The event is scheduled for Tuesday, Aug. 17, from 9 to 10:30 p.m. at Mark's Plaza. Alumni, parents, and friends are invited to attend.

Contact the Alumni Office for details at 319-352-8491 or 800-772-2085, ext. 8491.

Athletic Hall of Fame will induct seven at Homecoming

Six former athletes and a coach will be inducted into the Wartburg Athletic Hall of Fame at Homecoming. The ceremony will take place at a Saturday evening dinner on Oct. 16.

William (Kapp) Kappmeyer '40
Bolingbrook, Ill.
Retired Teacher and Coach

Kappmeyer lettered four years each in basketball and baseball, starting every game in both sports and serving as captain of both teams during his senior year.

He was the Knights' leading scorer in basketball his senior year and the leading hitter on the baseball team throughout his career.

After graduation and service in World War II, he coached high school sports at Oneida, Tripoli, West Union, and Fort Madison in Iowa and Lockport and Bolingbrook in Illinois. He also served as a scout for the Pittsburgh Pirates for a number of years.

John E. Tuecke '60
DeKalb, Ill.
Associate Vice President for Computing and Telecommunications Systems, Northern Illinois University

Tuecke is the fifth leading scorer, 1,403 points, and second leading rebounder, 982, in Wartburg men's basketball history. He played on two Iowa Conference championship teams, 1959 and 1960, and was named to the All-IIAC first team both seasons.

A four-year letterwinner, he led the Knights to the NCAA post-season tournament all four seasons.

He earned his master's degree at Kansas State and did further postgraduate study at the University of Nebraska. He taught at Wartburg one year, 1965, and then joined the State University of New York system as assistant director for academic services in the computer center. He has been at Northern Illinois since 1981.

Jon W. Thieman '68
Edgewood, Wash.
Vice President/Controller/Treasurer, Weyerhaeuser Realty Investors

A four-year letterwinner in cross country and track, Thieman won All-Conference medals in both sports three times.

In four seasons of cross country, he finished first in 18 meets and was second 13 times. He won the District 15 NAIA Meet in 1967, placed second for the Knights' Iowa Conference championship team that year, and then placed fifth at the NCAA national meet, winning All-America status.

At one point, he held or shared track records in the mile, half-mile, and mile relay. Those records have since been broken.

Virg Erickson '70
Denver
Teacher, Waterloo Columbus High School

Erickson was a starting guard on three Iowa Conference championship basketball teams and the starting catcher for three years in baseball, earning All-American honors from the NAIA in baseball.

He was named honorable mention All-Conference in basketball in 1969 and 1970. In baseball, he was All-District 15 NAIA in 1968, first team All-IIAC in 1969, and second team All-IIAC in 1970.

Wartburg compiled a 73-7 record during Erickson's three years as starting guard in basketball and was 35-34 in baseball. In his junior year of baseball, he hit .446 and ranked 23rd in the nation, winning the Adirondack "Big Stick" award for Area 4 of the NAIA. He was drafted by the St. Louis Cardinals and played in Sarasota, Fla.

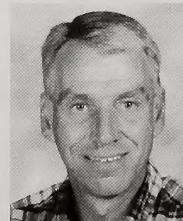

He then coached and taught at Springville and Waterloo Columbus, making state tournament appearances in both basketball and golf. He also won the Blackhawk County Gold Star Teacher Award. He continues to teach at Columbus and serves as color analyst for the University of Northern Iowa Basketball Network.

Tom Manchester '71
La Crosse, Wis.
Physical Education Instructor and Aquatic Director, Logan High School

Manchester was a four-year letterwinner in both basketball and baseball. He earned All-Conference honors all four years in basketball and started at shortstop all four years in baseball, earning the team MVP award in 1971.

He started 105 consecutive games in basketball as Wartburg went 92-15 while winning four IIAC championships. He ranks 10th on the all-time scoring list with 1,277 points. He was twice named NAIA honorable mention All-America.

Manchester was assistant basketball coach at Racine Park High School in Wisconsin from 1972 to 1976 before moving to Logan in La Crosse. He was twice named District Coach of the Year and took Logan to one high school state tournament. He ended his basketball coaching career in 1997.

Kathleen (Laufer) Hovick '80

Roland
Business Education and Physical Education Instructor, Roland-Story High School

Hovick was a stand-out in basketball and softball before the Iowa Conference started play in women's sports.

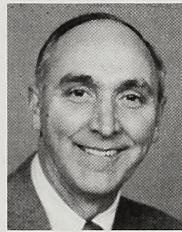

In basketball, she scored 1,150 points for a career average of 14.0 per game. She led the Knights in scoring in 1978-79 with 372 points. The following season, she was the Knights' top rebounder. She still holds school records for most consecutive free throws made, 23, and highest free throw percentage for a season, 84.1 percent.

In softball, she hit over .300 in two seasons and led the Knights in home runs, triples, doubles, and RBIs. She was Wartburg's Most Valuable Player in 1980.

She earned a master's degree in 1993 at Iowa State University. She taught and coached at Parkersburg Community High School, Colo. Community High School, and Coloneco High School before moving to Story City in 1998.

Coach Lewis (Buzz) Levick

Levick was head men's basketball coach at Wartburg from 1965 to 1993, compiling a 510-226 record, winning 14 Iowa Conference championships, and making 13 postseason tournaments. His teams twice reached the NCAA quarterfinals.

He was named Iowa Conference Coach of the Year nine times, NAIA District 15 Coach of the Year six times, and NAIA Area 4 Coach of the Year three times.

He is among only 65 coaches in the nation who have won 500 games or more during their careers. At the time of his retirement in 1993, he was ranked 28th among the winningest men's collegiate coaches. He was inducted into the Des Moines Register's Hall of Fame in 1998.

Before coming to Wartburg, he taught and coached at high schools in Rinard, LeGrand, Tama, and Newton. His overall career record is 747-328.

Conference focuses on critical importance of early years

Wartburg hosted its third annual conference June 4-5 on "Things That Matter in the Lives of Children."

"Continuing research shows that the first three years of life are critical to a child's growth and development in all areas of life," said Dr. Stanley Graven '53, a nationally recognized authority on child development and neurology. "Our inattentiveness to this research is apparent. Older children are facing challenges they have difficulty meeting because of developmental needs that were not met in these first years."

The Wartburg conference discusses such issues as: How can we be more attentive to the needs of children and families? How can we provide better support for our children and those who raise them through our churches, schools, social service agencies and community programs?

CELEBRATION OF CHILDREN—Performer "Mr. Jim" Schattauer of Bayport, Minn., gets children involved in activities as part of a national conference on "Things That Matter in the Lives of Children." Schattauer led a Celebration of Children that was part of the June 4 and 5 conference activities.

"One of the unique features of this conference is that it brings together professionals with non-professionals," said the Rev. Ramona Bouzard, director of church relations and conference coordinator. "Our attendance grows each year."

Next year's conference is scheduled for June 2-3. For more information, contact the Church Relations Office, 319-352-8217.
